Nebraska City Street Cars Knock Out All Speed Records.

FLIT THROUGH SPACE LIKE A PHANTOM

Driver of One Has Good Deal method. of Fun with Three Passengers from the Country.

Did you ever ride on a Nebraska City street car?

You could not have ridden on many of them, for there are only two on the entire system. But these two will do to remember and you will remember them if ever it falls to your lot to be jerked through space on one of them.

Nebraska City is one of the most beautiful and progressive little cities of the state, but like every other city, big and little, it has obstacles to encounter in its march toward the metropolitan.

But whatever else may be said of Nebraska City's street car system, of its car men, it must be said they are most accommodating and courteous in their treatment of passengers, and particularly if they discover any of their passengers to be from out of town. In this regard car men in other cities might well emulate them.

Cordiality is one of the distinguishing elements in Nebraska City. With jealous care and vigilant fidelity its people guard the exercise of this good trait of character. The day of the unveiling of the Morton monument-the biggest day in the history of Otoe county-this fact was conspicuously manifest. And no person was more eager in his desire to accommodate and entertain than the men charged with the responsibility of actually running these two street

All Over the Line.

The cars seemed to be all over the line all the time. You couldn't look in any direction, it seemed, but you would see one of these quaint, diminutive affairs whizzing through the air. The line runs from the Burlington depot to Morton park and throughout the day these two ancient caravans were kept plying back and forth between these termini, loaded "to the guards" all the time.

Motive power? Why, horses, or sometimes mules. But never could horses run like these animals. About 1:45 in the afternoon of the unveiling day one of these cars was tearing up the street which leads to Morton park. The exercises were to begin at 2 o'clock. There was no time to lose. This car was literally packed. All seats were taken, men were standing on each other's toes Inside and on the rear and front platforms. The driver just barely had room in which to swing his great blacksnake. But another man, a stranger in the city, wanted to get aboard. As the car dashed up the street he ran out

"Who-a-pp, Jinny, there's anoth'rn!" shouted the driver, as he began to set brakes and draw in on his lines. "Hurry up! Ain't no time to spare!" he called out, "Never mind stopping. Go right ahead. I'll get on all right," yelled the man, who was from Omaha.

He Got on, All Right.

He did get on-on the front platform, which was not over two feet from the dashboard to the front of the car, it seemed. He stood right at the driver's elbow, so that every time that kind-hearted man swung his blacksnake at his horses the smart, small end of it took a half-hitch around the stranger's neck. But all this only added to the delirious intoxication of the sport. The man delved down in his pocket and brought up a nickel. He held it in his hand for a while and then stuck it between his teeth, the only natural place to carry carfure. He walted for some one to come get it. He gave a look back through the long vista of the car, but he couldn't see half through; it was jammed with hulook for him to run from the rear and catch the front, but he didn't. The driver was entirely too busy to bother with such little things as fare, so the man reluctantly put the money back in his pocket, intending, as they do in Omaha, to send the nickel to the company's office the next day. Then he reflected that that might be a knock on the car men.

Finally, this car struck a down grade. On the front platform were several Teutonic gentlemen from out in the state somewhere. The driver saw his opportunity

Time, Precious Time. "Time, time, we got'er make time," he shouted at his raging steeds, into whom of the situation amused the Omaha man he was pouring the black snake like wheat and in his excitement he dropped his running into a hopper. The foaming ani- handkerchief. He quietly jumped off the mals had struck a dead lope. They raced car and picked it up and was back on through the atmosphere like two mad before the outraged driver and the frightsteeds of war. The old car swayed and ened Germans got their breath, surged; it jumped up and down, leaped ferward and then seemed fairly to spring from one intersection street to another. Like a phantom flying through the air. this caravan sped "onward, ever onward," as Bill Nye said of his fox chase.

"Mine Gott, schtop it," yelied a distracted passenger on the front platform; "I cain annoyed him.

Bilicuaness, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, disturbed aleep, nervousness, headache, giddiness and drowsiness, wind and pain or fullness of the stomach after meals, cold chilis and flushings of heat, shortness of breath—these are the blank cheques of physical bankruptey.

The man who suffers from these disorders and neglects them will soon be in the relentless grasp of some fatal disease. If he is naturally narrow chested and shallow lunged, it will probably be consumption; if his father or mother died of paralysis or some nervous trouble, it will probably be nervous exhaustion or prostration, or even insanity; if there is a taint in the family blood, it will be blood or skin disease; if he lives in a new or a low, swampy country, it will be malaria; if he lives a life of exposure, it may be rheumatism. There is one safe course for a man to follow who finds himself out of sorts and suffering from the symptoms described. It is to recort to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This medicine makes the appetite keen, corrects all disorders of the digestion, renders assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood and builds firm, healthy flesh and nerve tissue. It cures almost all diseases that result from manufacient or improper nourishment of the brain and nerves. Bronchial, throat. 'naufficient or improper nourishment of the brain and nerves. Bronchial, throat, and even lung affections, when not too far advanced, readily yield to it.

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poleoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pelets cure constipation. One little Pellet' is a gentic laxative, and two a mild cathartin. Don't let a selfish seller over-persuade you to accept a substitute for these Original Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. E. V. Pierce over 40 years
